Kings-Blades in final here

The Kamloops Kraft Kings will provide the opposition for the Vernon Blades as the Okanagan Junior Hockey League swings into its final game of the season this Saturday night.

The game, although it can hardly qualify as a fitting climax to a Hollywood production, will probably indicate which way the fortunes of the two teams involved are going to lean for the pending playoffs.

A sneak preview of this Saturday's final took place in Kamloops last evening when the Kraft Kings dumped the Blades 6-4. Gerry Janicki, the city's candidate for a spot on the all star team which will be picked shortly by coaches throughout the league, slammed in three goals for Kings while Roy Sakaki netted two and Greg Schriver scored once.

Vernon's Keith Rolston popped in his 28th and 29th markers of the season while Ivan Malinosky and Tom Serviss each scored once.

The match was tied 2-2 after the first period and Kings led 4-3 after the sandwich session.

Blades were outshot 34-20 by their hosts.
