Nanaimo fans to sip suds

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — Nanaimo Clippers will be the first B.C. Junior Hockey League team to have beer served at its home games and officials say they are confident the suds won't brew any trouble in the stands.

Arnie Johnson, manager of the Frank Crane Arena, said Thursday the first sales will be Feb. 3 when the Clippers meet Cowichan Valley Capitals.

When the Clippers played Cowichan Valley in Duncan last weekend RCMP were called to quell a near-riot. However, Johnson said he does not expect any problems from beer consumption.

"It definitely wasn't an alcohol-oriented type of thing at all," he said of the Duncan disturbance. "It was just fans worked up over something that happened in the penalty box and there was basically nothing to it, really."

"The liquor here is not allowed in the stands to start with. We have a holding area, so I don't anticipate any problems whatsoever."

USE PLASTIC CUPS

Bottled beer will be served in plastic cups in the top-floor mezzanine, from which the playing surface can be seen.

The arena, with seats 2,755 for hockey, will hire additional security personnel to patrol the cordoned-off drinking area.

Johnson's prediction that beer consumption will create no problems was generally endorsed by BCJHL officials.

"I personally have a little concern because I really feel that people should be able to go to a hockey game and get by without drinking during the game," said Jack Bloom executive manager of the BCJHL's Coastal Division.

"But if it's put in by the recreation commission or parks board or whatever it might be over there, we certainly can't do anything about it."

BCJHL president Vern Dyer said beer sales in a rink would have "nothing to do with the league whatsoever," unless the safety of players is affected.

CLUBS IN TROUBLE

He said if the sale of beer increased fan interest, "I think it would be wise — attendance at junior hockey has sure dropped, and every club in the B.C. junior league is having financial trouble."

Beer profits in Nanaimo will go to the arena and the regional district which owns it, Johnson said, though he expects the Clippers can expect an attendance increase.

The Clippers, who are leading the Coastal Division, already have one of the best attendance averages in the league — between 800 and 1,100 a game.

In Victoria, Allan Gould, deputy general manager of liquor licensing, said that although the Nanaimo application was approved by local authorities provincial liquor inspectors looked carefully at the situation.

Gould said the Nanaimo licence is only the sixth of its kind in B.C. and all have been granted in the past year.
